A woman was charged yesterday with stealing more than $1 million from the Archdiocese of New York during a period of seven and a half years. Anita Collins, 67, was charged with grand larceny and falsifying business records, according to the Manhattan district attorney. Prosecutors say Collins issued checks payable to accounts she controlled while she worked for the Archdiocese as an accounting clerk. ● METRO/CG

Cop a pimp?

A cop accused of acting as a pimp in his spare time denied to the New York Daily News that he had anything to do with prostitutes. Monty Green, a seven-year veteran who worked in Brownsville, faces a departmental trial next month after the NYPD Internal Affairs Bureau investigated whether he tried to pimp out a prostitute — who was actually an undercover cop — named Candy. In transcripts of phone calls, “Candy” and Green reportedly discussed whether Green would wait inside or outside a club where she was working. ● METRO/AB

Construction. Price tag

► Once completed, the 1,776-foot One World Trade Center will be the tallest in the U.S., but it won't be the highest in the world.

WTC construction now the world's priciest skyscraper

One World Trade Center was valued yesterday to cost the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey $3.8 billion to build, making it far and away the world's most expensive office tower. That new price tag, revealed in The Wall Street Journal, is mostly due to unprecedented security measures implemented at the building. One World Trade, formerly nicknamed the Freedom Tower, sits atop a reinforced podium, designed to protect the tower from the path of a blast, and steel reinforces its elevator shafts. ● METRO/CB

New arrests in OWS clash

The prettiest proletariat: Labor rights en vogue

► Model hopes to form alliance for industry rights ► Details abuse of young, vulnerable models ► Her efforts lauded by local industry experts

New York models are banding together to become comrades in couture.

With Fashion Week around the corner, beginning on Feb. 9, model Sara Ziff is launching the Model Alliance next Monday, a nonprofit organization that she says will advocate for models' rights.

“The modeling industry is essentially an unregulated industry,” said Ziff.

She hopes to address the recurring problems she said many models endure, such as child labor, sexual assault, eating disorders, and fraudulent financial practices.

Some models are pressured into performing sexual favors in exchange for work, Ziff said, recalling one colleague who was asked to pleasure a photographer in order to be cast in his shoot.

“She felt violated,” Ziff said. “This was a top fashion photographer who is well established and powerful. When you are replaceable, it's not so easy to speak about abuse.”

While many people are familiar with the industry's famous faces, they may not know the harsh realities of life on, and off, the runway.

“There's this misperception that models are making millions of dollars,” said Ziff. “What people don't realize is that models are often working for free.”

Ziff said that many models are working to pay off debt to their agencies, or paying off expensive flights and visas required for work. On top of that debt, Ziff added, the models are often paid only in clothes. “You can't pay your rent with a tank top,” Ziff said.

The Model Alliance will host its debut reception on Monday at the Standard Hotel. Interested models can join the Alliance for $50, Ziff said, but no model in need of aid will be turned away.

A young start

The Model Alliance surveyed nearly 100 working fashion models based in New York and Los Angeles and found the following statistics on the age that models begin work:

Pressured into sex

Nearly 30 percent of models have experienced inappropriate touching on the job, a Model Alliance survey found. More specifically, 28 percent said they were pressured to have sex with someone at work.

A 'model' organization

Williamsburg-based model Lauren B., 21, said an organization like the Model Alliance is sorely needed for the industry.

“I have girlfriends who are 15 years old that are thrown into all kinds of situations,” said B. “They're being given drugs; [The Model Alliance] is definitely needed.”

Like many aspiring models, B. moved to New York on her own as a teenager from San Francisco.

“It was really hard. I couldn't talk to anyone about what I was going through,” said B. “A lot of these girls are alone and scared, and no one is looking out for them.”

Slowing for safety or sway?

NEW YORK. Following a series of grisly deaths on the city subway system last week, wherein three people were hit and killed by trains, subway conductors are being asked by their union to take "extra care" when pulling trains into stations, according to the New York Daily News.

The Transit Workers Union Local 100 is reportedly drafting flyers asking conductors to slow down to prevent more injuries.

However, some argue the real goal is a jab at MTA/TWU contract negotiations, which have reached a standstill. Under state law, it is illegal for public transit workers to plan a strike or a work slowdown. Union heads deny the suggestion. ● METRO/EAE

Ridership on the New York City subway system has increased 30 percent since 1998. But the happiness of straphangers hasn't kept pace, a new report released yesterday found.

Transportation Alternatives, a rider advocacy group, surveyed subway and bus riders on the quality of their public travel experiences over the past three years. According to the survey, participants were asked the question, "Since 2009, has your commute on the NYC subway or bus gotten better or worse?"

Of nearly 700 respondents, a whopping 61 percent said their commute had worsened since 2009, while just 13 percent said it got better.

"This survey confirms what every bus and subway rider in this city knows," said Paul Steely White, director of Transportation Alternatives. "After years of declining transit funding from Albany and the resulting service cuts, our commutes have gotten worse."

White cited higher fares, longer wait times and overcrowded trains as all contributing to the lower-quality experiences. He said riders haven't forgotten how service cuts the MTA enacted in 2010 cost them two subway lines, 36 bus routes and 570 bus stops.

Gene Russianoff, director of the New York City Straphangers' Campaign, said he wasn't surprised by the survey results.

"There have been two fare hikes and the worst service cuts in a generation," Russianoff said. "New Yorkers hate paying more for less."

The MTA declined to comment on the survey.

Calling out Albany

NEW YORK. While Transportation Alternatives blasted the MTA, it also singled out state officials for "stealing" dedicated transit funds.

"Beyond the frustration of a longer commute and higher fares, these results should be a wake-up call to our leaders in state government," said Paul Steely White of Transportation Alternatives. "They can fund transit and make a positive impact on millions of people, or they can continue to defund the system and contribute to their struggle."

For three consecutive budgets since 2009, state elected officials took $260 million from dedicated transit money and used the revenue to fund other projects, said White. ● METRO/EAE

Accused of neglecting pooch

BROOKLYN. Dora, a shih tzu, was just 6.55 pounds and within inches of her life when ASPCA Humane Law Enforcement agents found her at the Brooklyn home of her owner on Dec. 17, 2010, ASPCA agents announced yesterday.

Someone had reported the emaciated dog to the ASPCA and owner Nicole

Dennis, 32, was arrested and charged with animal cruelty.

Dennis could face up to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine if convicted. Dora, badly dehydrated and skeletal, was immediately placed on intravenous fluids and now weighs a healthy 9.2 pounds. She will eventually be placed up for adoption.

Mayor blamed for lack of 9/11 funds

Council members amped up pressure on Mayor Michael Bloomberg yesterday to do more to accelerate research about a possible 9/11 cancer link.

Last year, a report released by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health found there was not enough evidence to determine the inhalation of World Trade Center dust caused cancer.

The city Department of Health and Mental Hygiene is currently conducting its own cancer study, but Dr. Carolyn Greene from the department testified at a Council hearing yesterday that the city needs more resources to conduct its research.

Manhattan Councilman Fernando Cabrera blamed the lack of funding squarely on Bloomberg.

“I agree with you, you should receive this funding and that’s the job of the mayor,” said Cabrera. “The mayor had 10 years to be able to get enough funding.”

Bronx Councilman Oliver Koppell agreed, saying the mayor should be fighting harder to get cancer included as one of the health conditions

Not on the list

The administrator of the World Trade Center Health program, Dr. John Howard, determined in July there was not sufficient evidence for cancer to be added to a list of covered medical conditions, even though many particulates from the fallen towers are carcinogens.

covered under the Zadroga Act. “The mayor’s the head of the city administration. I understand that it’s not the city’s decision but the city could recommend it,” Koppell said.

“The city has always ... supported Zadroga, which requires the federal government to review health studies ... to determine if there was a link between 9/11 work and cancer,” said Bloomberg spokeswoman Samantha Levine.

Mother charged with abandoning daughters

A Canarsie mom was charged by police yesterday with abandoning her two toddler girls on the sidewalk Sunday.

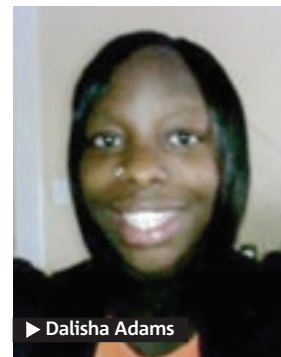

Dalisha Adams, 26, was charged with two counts of endangering the welfare of a child after she allegedly dumped her daughters, Diani, 3, and Dominae, 2, out in the cold on Sunday afternoon.

Police found the girls wandering the streets of Canarsie. According to a report in the New York Daily News, they were left in their winter coats, holding disposable diapers.

The sisters were only able to tell reporters and police, "Mommy just left us on the sidewalk and drove away."

Cops said the girls only knew that their mother was named Dalisha and drove a white car.

Police found the Adams sisters in front of the Bay View Houses, a mile and a half from the Breukelen Houses, where their mother lives.

In order to identify the girls, police went door to door hoping to find their home. Cops busted down Adams' door at 10 p.m. on Sunday, but she was nowhere to be found. She turned herself in to the 69th Precinct later that night, at 11:30 p.m.

"I was shocked," Diquale Ranger, 17, the girls' uncle, told the News of Adams' arrest. Ranger said the girls' grandmother will be seeking custody of the kids.

We're sticking with our predictable prediction that Romney will win — though don't let this affect your vote, Florida readers! — based on the numbers and also because we don't think Gingrich, with his narrative of onerous marital infidelities, can pull the state. ('Cause they're old! You know, the "chinos-wearing set", as one GQ campaign reporter put it.)

But don't count your chickens just yet, America. Anything goes, and evidence suggests that Gingrich will stay in the race long after pandering to the Space Coast subsidies.

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Could another Republican join the race to face Obama?

Is it too late for another Republican to jump into the 2012 U.S. presidential race?

Mitt Romney is riding high in Florida and threatening to take charge of the Republican nomination with a win in Tuesday's primary there.

But even as some party conservatives appear to be coming around to supporting him, many are concerned that the bitter fight between Romney and Newt Gingrich has damaged both of them to the extent that neither would be able to defeat President Obama in the Nov. 6 election.

Grassroots conservative activists are worried that Gingrich's attacks on Romney's business background have given Democrats a big hammer to use against the former Massachusetts governor this fall.

Meanwhile, mainstream Republicans think Romney is right when he says Gingrich is a Washington insider with deep personal and political baggage and more half-baked ideas than the corner pastry shop.

The Romney-Gingrich battle has left many Americans in a sour mood about the Republican contenders.

So is there a chance that a popular Republican might come to the rescue and snatch the presidential nomination?

Analysts say there is still a sliver of time for another Republican candidate to jump in to the race.

This year's campaign calendar is loaded with spring contests, meaning a Republican could enter the race in early February and still compete directly in states with at least 1,200 of the 2,282 or so Republican delegates, according to the University of Virginia Center for Politics.

Connecticut police chief resigns

EAST HAVEN, CONN. Police Chief Leonard Gallo of the East Haven Police Department abruptly resigned yesterday amid a racial profiling scandal in which four officers were arrested and the mayor's clumsy handling of the case enraged Latino advocates nationwide.

The officers were charged with harassing and using excessive force against Latinos. His resignation comes a week after the federal indictment was unveiled.

Last week, Maturo, in response to a reporter's question about what he would do for Latinos, quipped, "I might have tacos."

Although the mayor later apologized, angered Latino advocates sent a mountain of 500 tacos to Town Hall the next day to draw a spotlight to what was variously viewed as ineptness, racism or some combination of the two. A deputy chief was appointed to temporarily lead the department. REUTERS

Casting light on 'Darkness'

► Holocaust drama recreates dark tale of survival in the Polish sewers during WW2 ► Krystyna Chiger's memoirs now Oscar-nominated movie

Metro Q&A

In 1943, a group of Polish Jews daringly sought refuge in the sewer system of Nazi-occupied city Lvov. Krystyna Chiger, then 8 years old, was one of them. Her survival story has been transformed in "In Darkness", nominated at next month's Oscars. As the world marks Holocaust Remembrance Day, Metro speaks with Krystyna about her harrowing past.

You were only 8 when you were hiding from the Germans in the sewers for 14 months. What was the worst? Stink? Danger of death by drowning? Rats? It is very difficult to differentiate. All of the above were the worst I have ever experienced.

You wrote down your childhood memories in "The Girl in the Green Sweater." What happened to this sweater? My green sweater was with me for many years. Eventually I decided to donate it to the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington, D.C.

You write about the Pole who helped you survive in the gutters. Do you think this quashes the belief Poles were anti-Semitic? The answer is no. Leopold Socha was unfortunately one of not too many Polish individuals who put his and his family life in great danger. ... Every year on the day of remembrance, I light the candle and say a prayer for his soul. In recognition for his commitment, his name is displayed among the righteous in museums such as Yad Vashem in Jerusalem, Imperial War Museum in London and the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum.

Hundreds of people went down to the sewers. Why did only 10 survive? Not too many human beings could stand the terrible environment the sewers could offer; Socha was unable to take care of more than a few and it was his and his two friends' choice.

Those who could not stand the unbearable conditions went outside and were murdered by Nazis. Some others drowned in the sewers.

How was it watching [director] Agnieszka Holland's film "In Darkness," which tells the story of your survival? Remembering those days is very painful, and I don't like to go back to those memories. But I am forcing myself to talk about it because I fully understand that the history may repeat itself. And so, for the future generation, I do talk and write about it so it will not be forgotten. Agnieszka's film is so realistic that I shivered and cried for its entire viewing.

From George Clooney to Steve-O?

PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

On so many levels, this doesn't make sense.

We heard the Elisabetta Canalis/Steve-O rumors a couple weeks ago, but we were willing to ignore them. After all, what would George Clooney's recent ex want with one of the "Jackass" guys?

As it turns out, dating him.

In a video from TMZ, the "Dancing with the Stars" contestants are caught leaving a salon together in L.A. before escaping to Steve-O's car. Not only is she dating Steve-O, she is demurely declining to comment in paparazzi central — the B-team Hollywood equivalent of moving to a good school district and buying a minivan.

Thing is, Steve-O doesn't look too bad these days. He's no longer putting fishing hooks through his cheek and jumping into shark-infested waters — this happened, and we all share some blame — and has sobered up. He's a vegan, and judging from his anti-fur ad for PETA, has a pretty cute vegan butt.

Wait — what would Steve-O want with a Clooney ex?

Today, Eric Stonestreet is making the after-party awkward, Sandra Bernhard isn't going anywhere, Melanie Griffith is reaching out to Demi Moore via Twitter and Albert Brooks is looking to science to simplify things.

@ericstonestreet

I think what would surprise most people at award show parties is the sheer amount of farting I'm doing while talking to famous people.

Talking points

Katy Perry playing it low-key

Katy Perry made her first red carpet appearance — at a charity event in Las Vegas — since her split from Russell Brand, according to People magazine. Hair dyed blue, Perry kept pretty quiet, according to sources at the event. "She was really tame," a source says. "She was really just drinking a few drinks and chilling with her friends." Perry had been out of the country recently, performing shows in Indonesia and the Philippines.

Watch your back, Stacy Keibler

Mary Tyler Moore was excited to pick up her lifetime achievement award from the Screen Actors Guild this past weekend, but she was even more eager for another chance to rub elbows with a specific A-lister, according to People magazine. "I met George Clooney in a very small elevator, and he came over and he put his arms around me," the actress remembers. "I think he said something like, 'I love you.' It was maybe two years ago. I am going to seek him out tonight."

The Jolie-Pitts aren't listening

Well said, Kim

It's been awhile since we agreed with something Kim Kardashian said. And so we present selected quotes from Sunday's season finale of "Kourtney and Kim Take New York" — which we've freed from infuriatingly mindless dribble about "fairy tales" and "growth experiences."

Take it away, Kim!

► "Sometimes I feel so dead inside."

► "[I] wasted everyone's time and everyone's money — everyone's everything."

► "I failed at this."

Diva fail!

Elton John's ongoing media fight with Madonna continues. During a "Good Morning America" interview yesterday, he was asked what advice he had for her Super Bowl halftime performance.

"Make sure you lip sync good," he responded.

A good one, for sure. But it would have been a little sharper if he wasn't promoting a Pepsi Super Bowl commercial — that would be commercial, not halftime show — that he stars in with some "X Factor" contestant.

Moments like these, Sir Elton, are what Madonna eats for breakfast.

controls on their children's Web activity. For instance, the Jolie-Pitt kids can't Google their famous parents. "On all the kids' computers we had our names blocked," Pitt tells Germany's Bild. "They can't Google their mom and dad. I don't want to make myself dependent on what other people think." And Pitt is hoping he and Jolie can lead by example, as they're not very interested in checking up on what folks online are saying either. "We don't even notice all the noise," he says.

If you are unlucky enough to live in North Korea, your motivations and desires don't matter. You are told who you are to be and if you resist, you will be sent to a labor camp where you will do hard labor until you die an early death. The state issues your clothing and shoes and ration cards.

Thanks to government censorship and its propaganda machine, everyone reads the same media and prescribes to the same philosophy: Working towards the common good.

It's this lack of individuality in the face of such brutality that was attractive to writer Adam Johnson. So much so he set his new novel, "The Orphan Master's Son," within the totalitarian regime.

Johnson tells us that it wasn't the mystery nor the creepiness of North Korea that won him over (although that was certainly tempting for a writer) — it was the idea of what it means to be a character in your own life when you have no say in who you are.

He clarifies: "Here in the West, you are the main person in the story of your life — everyone else is a secondary character. We have motivations and desires and, in the end, we change and grow and gain wisdom in some way," says Johnson. "In North Korea, there is one central character — the Dear Leader — and 23 million secondary characters. Everyone is constricted to be an unwilling participant in a national narrative they have no control over."

Despite having no free will, Johnson's lead character, Pak Jun Do, is able to endure and thrive and create his own destiny. With a touch of magical realism, Johnson's Pak Jun Do undergoes some unbelievable situations. But, then again, North Korea is an unbelievable place.

"How do people inhabit themselves in a world that is so circumscribed?" Johnston asks rhetorically. "How do you become an individual? Those are questions I'm fascinated with."

Parenting
notesPacifier germs, beware!

Your baby's pacifier is a hotbed for bacteria, but thankfully, the Pipila — the first-ever eco-friendly UV pacifier sterilizer — can help prevent the spread of viruses and germs that can sicken your little one. The portable sterilizer breaks down and destroys bacteria via UV light in just three minutes, deftly removing the worry that creeps in when you see your infant's pacifier fall to the ground. $35, www.pipilausa.com

Schools sign up to conserve energy

K-12 schools in America spend an excess of $7.5 billion on energy costs each year, with as much as $2.25 billion (30 percent) being used unnecessarily, according to Energystar.gov. The Green Cup Challenge looks to change that. More than 100 schools across the country have vowed to slash their energy costs this year. Come mid-February the challenge ends, but every school that participates is deemed a winner for reducing energy use. Learn more at www.greencupchallenge.net.

Super Bowl snacks

brought to you by the drive-through

► Save time and money on your Super Bowl Sunday treats with these fast food staples you can class up with simple add-ons at home

When it comes to Super Bowl snacks this Sunday, you can take Food Network star Sandra Lee's concept of "Semi-Homemade" to a whole new level. How? With fast food that is specially tweaked to score major touchdowns with your guests. Yep, we're talking KFC and Dunkin' Donuts, but with your own unique additions.

Allison Beck, editor at [www.thedaily meal.com](http://www.thedaily meal.com), set about finding last-minute party fixes that take simple, inexpensive take-out to the next level with some minor enhancements you probably already have in your pantry. As Beck says, "We're busy people and you've got to find shortcuts."

Read on for a few of Beck's ingenious ideas.

1 Sticky rice lifesaver: When making burritos or chili, get Chinese takeout white rice to accompany the dish. It's inexpensive and cooked perfectly. No one will be the wiser.

2 KFC's Grilled Chicken: Get a bucket of grilled chicken, coat it with sauce (hot, BBQ or otherwise), get some buns, lettuce and tomato — and voila! A sammie that's sure to please.

3 Dress up your plain-jane pizza: Add fresh arugula and maybe even some truffle oil to your local delivery pizza. Cut the slices into bite-sized pieces for classy apps.

4 Dunkin' Donuts desserts: Want some instant profiteroles? Get some doughnut holes, slice them in half, add some ice cream and boom! You've got a whole lot of

Game on: It's Puppy Bowl time

► Animal Planet's annual match is this weekend ► Ref Dan Schachner on why he has the best job in the world

During Puppy Bowl VIII, 58 puppies will stumble over their oversize paws while, ideally, making it into the end zone with a chew toy. They might just tumble around mid-field. Making cute little puppy faces at the puppy cam is also an option. It doesn't really matter — everyone wins here.

We checked in with ref Dan Schachner before the big game to talk puppy strategy — and figure out how to steal his job.

What are your responsibilities as ref?

I'm there mostly to call puppy touchdowns — which happen very frequently, the rules are pretty loose — and puppy ► Puppy Bowl VIII airs Sunday, 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Adopt a star!

► All Puppy Bowl participants — including the halftime kitens and hamster blimp pilots — are available for adoption on Petfinder.com. New York all-stars include 10-week-old rat terriers from Tails of Love rescue and Aberdeen, a 10-week-old Australian Shepherd mix from the Sullivan County SPCA.

penalties. I have the flag in my pocket and I'm not afraid to use it.

How do you break up puppy fights?

We have a term called "pancaking" — when you flatten like a pancake — and that's a reason to give the puppies a little break.

Which dogs are the most athletic?

The shih tzus are cute, but the more robust breeds are the ones that are going to score. Surprisingly, the dachshunds are great running backs. They seem kind of quiet and baffled at first, but when they get that chew toy they score.

Be honest: Does cuteness help when it comes to calls?

Cuteness doesn't affect me one way or the other. But what I do have to turn a blind eye to are the puppy fouls — the premature watering of the lawn. We have to let some of those go or we'd never get on with the game. That said, if there's a really big foul left in the middle of the field, that will result in at least a 10-15 yard penalty.

Halftime is of the essence

► As Madonna prepares to entertain however many billion people will tune into the Super Bowl, we look at the most notable performances of the past 20 years

Though this is the 46th Super Bowl, programmers have only been bringing big-name acts in for the halftime show since about 1991, when New Kids on the Block sang "Step by Step." Before that, the entertainment was mostly marching bands from the state where the teams were playing or performers who didn't exactly reflect the tastes of the masses, like Carol Channing. We re-watched the halftime shows and picked our five favorites.

1. U2, 2002

It was fewer than five months since the attacks of 9/11, and this three-song set from Dublin's finest did a heroic job of honoring those who died that day and saluting the country that U2 has always wished they were from, as Bono revealed an American flag close to his heart. Criticize Bono all you want for pandering, but even now it's hard not to get misty as the names of 9/11 victims scroll down a huge screen as U2 plays "MLK" and "Where the Streets Have No Name."

2. Prince, 2007

His royal purpleness has always been known for his stadium-sized ego, but what made this performance unique is that despite performing on a stage shaped like the symbol that once served as his name, the dude performed a medley of seven songs, only three of which were his. He touched upon others by Queen, Creedence Clearwater Revival, Bob Dylan and the Foo Fighters. But since he is Prince, he obviously made all of these tunes his own.

3. Bruce Springsteen & the E Street Band, 2009

To condense a Springsteen concert experience into 13 minutes sounds almost as preposterous as trying to fit the complete works of Shakespeare onto a Bazooka Joe comic. But the Boss was able to fill a four-song suite with whole lot of hokey fun, including a gospel choir, a flag-throwing ref, a knee-slide across the stage, some mic-stand gymnastics and the return to the stage of Big Man Clarence Clemons, who had just had both knees replaced only a few months previously.

4. Michael Jackson, 1993

Billed as "an unprecedented Super Bowl spectacular," this show by the King of Pop was reportedly one of the most watched in TV history and would change the way networks programmed halftime. This was MJ just months before he was accused of sexually abusing children. It's eerie now to hear him say, "no one should have to suffer, especially our children," but the performance itself was touching (not the bad kind) as he sang "Heal the World," and the crowd held up placards to form drawings by kids.

5. Janet Jackson and Justin Timberlake, 2004

Call it "Nipplegate" if you must, but we always preferred "Super Boob Sunday." Watching this performance by Michael's little sister, it's amazing how the phrase "wardrobe malfunction" became the 00's version of "I didn't inhale." Seriously, we were supposed to believe that Janet just happened to be wearing a metal sunburst around her areola? Regardless of how planned or unplanned the "bet I'll have you nekkid by the end of this song" ending was, the duet with JT on "Rock Your Body" definitely still holds up eight(!) years later.

Where to watch the Super Bowl

► And more importantly, where to eat and drink during the big game ► Bars and restaurants around the city unveil special menus in support of Big Blue ► Don't worry, Pats fans — we have you covered, too

As Eli Manning and Tom Brady go head-to-head, all you have to do is kick back with an ice-cold beer and some good game-day grub. Whether you're a die-hard football fan or just in it for the fun, here are our suggestions on places to watch the Super Bowl.

SideBAR

Duke's
560 Third Ave.
212-949-5400
www.dukesnyc.com

As if Duke's 27 televisions weren't enough to lure football fans, they've also added craft beers to their menu. In addition to providing ultimate game day grub like pulled pork and mac n cheese, Duke's will be serving their award-winning wings. Servers will be wearing jerseys while the managers will be cheering on megaphones and handing out shots.

Letters

Are the Democrats as corrupt as GOP?

RE: "LIBERAL BAGGAGE CARRIES MORE WEIGHT": Did John Sangenario just bash liberals for being socialists and also for having a "greed is good" attitude? (In other words, for seeking to both redistribute and aggregate wealth?!) Does he know what any of these terms mean? Does he know how capitalism works? Or is he just making this stuff up as he goes? MARY SMITH, VIA E-MAIL

Perhaps Mr. Sangenario could name some names within the Democratic Party caucus who are as corrupt and crooked as Tom De Lay, David Vitter, Newt Gingrich and Mitt Romney. At the very least he might identify some policies he considers to be "communist ideology." But then I'm presuming his letter was serious in the first place. In semi-related news, a story emerged over the weekend of the Kansas House Speaker referring to President Obama by invoking a little-known verse from the Bible, Psalm 109:8, which includes the line "May his children be fatherless and his wife a widow." Has our public discourse fallen so far that officeholders can now publicly wish the president dead and nobody notices or cares? JOSEPH CONNELL, BROWNSVILLE

"If Obama was a portfolio manager he would be fired!"

Why are the media and Democrats so obsessed with Mitt Romney's investments and Bain Capital? He ran his business dealings legally and helped companies build their business and employ people that pay taxes. Meanwhile, Mr. Obama invested in Solyndra and many other companies — many of which have gone bankrupt only a couple of years after receiving millions of American citizens' tax dollars without Congressional approval. Mr. Romney is in the business to do such things and is knowledgeable regarding investments. If Obama was a portfolio manager he would be fired! JOHN ARSLANIAN, VIA E-MAIL

One is news, the other is opinion

The basic difference between FOX news and MSNBC is very simple: FOX is stories followed by opinions. MSNBC is news backed up by facts. ROBERT LA ROSA, WHITESTONE

Catholic in support of Obama decision

As a Catholic, I applaud the Obama administration for ensuring that nurses, teachers and secretaries have access to affordable birth control. The Catholic bishops who are fighting this decision don't speak for me. I don't think it's right for any employer to dictate whether any employee can or can't have access to affordable birth control. DR. NELLY BOGGIO, NEW YORK

'At Last?' More like, don't do that again

That film clip on the evening news of Christina Aguilera at Etta James' funeral service singing the great James' signature pop classic, "At Last," made me wonder where Ms. Aguilera got her vocal training — in the Chicago Stockyards, perhaps? She absolutely butchered a perfectly beautiful song! Go to your room, Christina, and stay there until you tone it down. HERB STARK, MASSAPEQUA

Horoscope

♈ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. If you're in need of some support, submit your request posthaste. Others are likely to be more willing to go out of their way to do favors now than they will be tomorrow.
♉ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. On matters of importance, you should take a middle position so that you'll be better able to evaluate the advantages of each alternative.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. It would prove to be quite advantageous for you to focus today's efforts on situations that could either increase your present resources or save you money. Both facets are favorable.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Don't leave any key assignments up to others if you can help it. The matters that you attend to personally should work out well for all concerned.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. This can be an exceptionally rewarding day for you if you are determined to satisfactorily conclude every project that you begin. You aren't likely to settle for less than you envision.
♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. You'll not only be a pleasant companion, you can also be an excellent teacher when you choose to be. Instinctively, you know how to inspire others with your words and deeds.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. A financial opportunity could develop through your work or through someone with whom you have close bonds. Take advantage of what develops; your material prospects look snappy.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. There is no better time than now to take action on plans you've recently cooked up. Your ideas look extremely promising, so get rolling on things while conditions are good.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. If you take the time to determine some meaningful targets for yourself, important objectives can be achieved right now. You could be successful both socially and materially.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. There is a strong possibility that you could meet and make a new, lasting friend through someone who is presently one of your best pals. The new party will be a welcome addition.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. A huge challenge that your associates would love to achieve but are too fearful to attempt isn't likely to intimidate you. Your better qualities will emerge and get you past the rough spots.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. A hot tip passed onto you through a friend of a friend may be too enticing to ignore. Study it carefully to determine if it has any value, and only then act on it if you so choose.

destinations

► Try the local elk.

What to eat

Montana may not seem like a culinary destination, but that's changing quickly. A bounty of local produce and traditionally raised organic beef, lamb and elk are attracting top culinary talent. Chef Josh Drage of The Ranch at Rock Creek is one of the innovators of Montana's modern rustic cuisine, dishing up bison short ribs with cilantro chutney and elk rib eye with flathead cherry demi-glace.

Beer-lovers can sample suds from more than 20 microbreweries. Saddle up at a local bar and order a Kettle House Cold Smoke Scotch Ale or local favorite Moose Drool. For a treat, stop by Philipsburg's Sweet Palace, the second largest candy store in the country.

More Montana

When to go

Plan to visit during summer and early fall, when fishing and camping conditions are best. On average, temperatures will reach 80 degrees by day and drop to the 50s at night.

Home on the range in Montana

► Yeeeee-haw! You can be a cowboy — or cowgirl — too.

ALL IMAGES COURTESY OF THE RANCH AT ROCK CREEK

► From horseback riding to fly fishing, a trip to Big Sky Country is all about variety ► Tuck into some local organic meat, produce and craft beers

Where to stay

The Ranch at Rock Creek (www.theranchatrockcreek.com) offers the best of Montana recreation by day and fine dining by night. Situated on 10 square miles of wilderness just north of the Pintler Mountains, the ranch offers fly fishing, horseback riding, hiking, sport shooting and archery, as well as a full-service spa. New to ranch life? The ranch provides your equipment, from footwear to fly reels.

What to do

Montana's wide-open spaces make it ideal terrain for hiking, horseback riding and biking. Here's what we like to do in Big Sky Country:

- Camping: Montana houses two spectacular national parks, Glacier and Yellowstone (of Old Faithful fame). Just stopping through? Try Glacier's Going-to-the-Sun Road, a 50-mile drive through some of the park's best scenery.
- Fly fishing: Montana is home to the world's best fly fishing, in a network of sparkling rivers and creeks. Hire a guide to show you where the locals cast. Also, read Missoula native Norman Maclean's "A River Runs Through It."
- Ghost hunting: During a mining boom in the late 1800s, a number of small towns and mining camps were created in the western part of the state. Abandoned long ago, many of the ghost towns are preserved and are open for tours.

Giants arrive in Indy

► Team in Super Bowl city, five days from game ► Media Day circus today

The Giants set down in the home of Super Bowl XLVI just before 3 p.m. yesterday. The team is healthy. Most of the game plan is in place.

Now they just have to wait five more days to play the game.

The team immediately boarded buses to the hotel and spoke to the media soon after.

"Once you get to Indianapolis your schedule is thrown off," said quarterback Eli Manning yesterday afternoon. "I told the guys when we get [here], focus on getting into the game plan. The mindset is this is a business trip and get ready to play our best football."

The team won't begin practicing until tomorrow, however. Super Bowl Media Day will take up all of today, and likely have very little to do with the actual game.

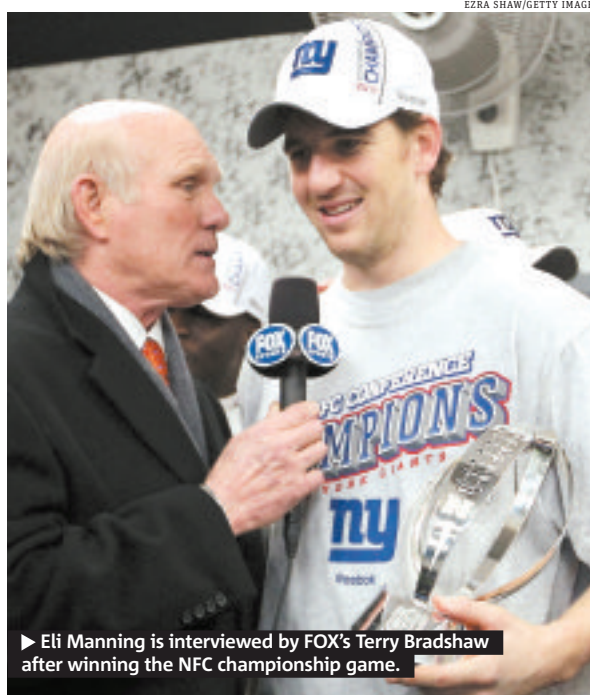

Media Day has earned the reputation of being a circus thanks to the amount of media taking part that aren't from sports outlets. Entertainment shows and publicity stunt reporters hog much of the questioning.

The team is trying to focus on nothing but the game, something aided by their Super Bowl experience. However, while 19 players on the team have played in the big game, key contributors like Jason Pierre-Paul and Victor Cruz have not.

"The buildup to the football game, no matter how you want to present it, is something that these young guys have never gone through," head coach Tom Coughlin said.

mark.osborne@metro.us

► Eli Manning is interviewed by FOX's Terry Bradshaw after winning the NFC championship game.

On Bill Parcells

Both Tom Coughlin and Patriots coach Bill Belichick coached under former Giants head coach Bill Parcells.

"He's always been an exceptional defensive coach, trained by the best, by [Bill] Parcells," Coughlin said about Belichick. "What anyone who was around Parcells for any length of time learned was how to win."
